Training for University & College Public Safety Officers

In today's modern age, there are numerous threats facing institutions of high learning, some of which we have never seen before. Bomb threats, violent intruders, acts of terrorism, protests, and other criminal activities are becoming commonplace. University and college public safety departments are tasked with a wide array of responsibilities and now must look towards addressing these emerging threats to campuses. Standards Training & Consulting provides the tools, resources, and education to help address and deal with many issues facing campus public safety officers. The following are some of the courses and services offered:

- "ALICE" Violent Intruder Training
- Telephonic Bomb Threat Response
- Safety Assessments and Target Hardening
- Emergency Procedure and Policy Review
- Contraband and Improvised Weapon Recognition
- Situational Awareness
- Criminal Behavior
- Forming and Strengthening Government Partnerships
- Community Oriented Policing Concepts
- Tactical Communication
- Intelligence Gathering

Standards Training & Consulting offers topic specific classes, as well as personalized curriculum to expand the knowledge and skills of public safety officers to effectively operate in the ever-changing world of campus safety.
